

My planning last Sunday

Last week, I had an incredible Saturday. First, I went to visit my grandfather who stays at Bleu Horizon on Perreault Street. So I left my house and went up Mercier Street. I turned right on Perreault Street and I stopped in front of the big building. After my visit, I had to go to the arena for my hockey practice. I continued on Perreault Street and turned left on Dallaire Street. I continued to Murdoch Street and turned right. Unfortunately, in front of the arena, I got a flat tire and had to go to the nearby garage to fix my tire. After that, I went to the grocery store down Main Avenue and turned left on Pinder Street. I stopped in front of the grocery store, then continued to Lariviere Street and turned left. After turning left on Taschereau street, I stopped in front of the movie theater to watch Mario Bros. After the movie, I went back home by way of Taschereau street. Another bad luck, between Mercier and Dallaire Avenue, there was an accident, so I turned around, turned right on Dallaire Street, turned right on Pinder Street and continued straight to my house. I was very happy to finally get home.
